

FIVE BODIES DISCOVERED IN MINE

FOUR DEAD, 3 LOST AS TWO BOATS CRASH

Over 286 On Board Excursion
Boat When Steamer Strikes
In Darkness.

ST. HELENS, Ore., March 31.—The known dead in the crash between the coastwise steamer Davenport and the excursion barge Swan of the Columbia river today stood at four. Three others who were among the merry-makers on the Swan are reported missing and are believed to have been drowned.

With a band blaring out music, the Swan, in tow of the tug Dix, was returning in the darkness to Vancouver, Wash., after its passengers had participated in the dedication of a new bridge at Longview, Wash.

THROWN IN PANIC
The excursionists were suddenly thrown in a panic when the Davenport bore down on the Swan and crashed through the planking of the barge, throwing dozens of persons into the river.

Approximately 286 persons were aboard the Swan at the time of the collision, and of these about 100 couples were dancing.

Immediately after the collision the Davenport lowered life boats and began rescuing those struggling in the river waters.

The identified dead are: Mrs. J. E. Hagedorn, Mrs. J. E. Lundy, Mrs. Stanley Stone, and J. E. Larson, all of Vancouver, Wash.

The missing are: Sergeant R. G. Anderson, member of the Seventh Infantry band, Vancouver barracks, and Jack Mitchell, deck hand on the Dix.

TROLL WATERS
VANCOUVER, Wash., March 31.—With four dead, three missing and 40 injured in the crash between the excursion barge Swan and a lumber schooner, searchers today were to troll the waters of the Columbia river for some trace of the missing.

The schooner Davenport crashed into the side of the Swan at midnight Saturday, burying its prow 10 feet in the pleasure barge. A moonlight dance was in progress aboard the Swan when the accident occurred and the 286 passengers were thrown into confusion. Several were hurled into the water.

Some of the injured were rushed to hospitals, while the majority were given emergency treatment. Accounting for the dead and missing is difficult due to the fact that none of the passengers was registered.

The barge was hurriedly beached on a sandbar in the middle of the river before it could sink.

FOUR GIRLS HAVE REAL EXPERIENCE

Miss Tolbert, Three Others,
Jump From Burning Automobile
Friday

Miss Mary Ruth Tolbert of Pickaway-twp., one of four girls who had a thrilling experience Friday afternoon when the automobile in which the girls were riding caught fire near the Ed Umstead residence on the Ross and Pickaway-co line.

The other three girls were Mary Louise Haynes, Virginia Lee Orr and Ruth Jeannette Rittenour, Kingston high school girls.

The Studebaker car, driven by Miss Haynes, began to develop motor trouble and while going down a slight incline, Miss Haynes slowed down to investigate.

When she did this, flames broke through the floor boards forcing the girls to make a hurried exit. Miss Orr fell and was badly shaken up although not seriously injured. She was unable to participate in the district literary and musical contest being held at Kingston.

The girls were on the way to the Umstead residence to return some articles used in the play at Kingston. Mrs. Umstead came to their aid and extinguished the blaze with wet sacks.

The fire was started by a short circuit.

AMENDMENT TO RECEIVE SENATE EYE

Tariff Aside, Wets and Drys
Prepare To Bring Controversy
To Head.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 31.—The troublesome tariff question temporarily shelved, senate wets and drys today prepared to bring the prohibition controversy into the chamber with indications that it would be the dominant topic of debate in both houses for the rest of the session.

Four prohibition proposals are now pending in the senate, where the question has been shunted to the background ever since Senator Borah of Idaho opened his attack upon the administration's enforcement regime three months ago.

The proposals include the Norris and Wheeler resolutions for investigation of enforcement, the Blaine resolution for outright repeal of the 18th amendment, transfer of the prohibition bureau from the treasury to justice department, and the lobby committee's wet and dry inquiry.

The transfer bill is expected to receive first legislative consideration, with Senator Overman (D) of North Carolina planning sub-committee hearings on it.

The Caraway lobby committee will open both the "church lobby" and "prohibition lobby" questions when it hears Rep. George H. Tinkham (R) of Massachusetts and Dr. Clarence True Wilson of the Methodist board of temperance and morals. Democratic national chairman, John J. Raskob also will be called.

Senator Blaine's repeal resolution was to furnish the wedge of the wet drive, with advocates citing dry referendums and polls to sustain their contention that the country is changing its complexion. There is little prospect for a vote on the measure.

The sweeping inquiry of enforcement proposed by Senator Norris (R) of Nebraska and Wheeler (D) of Montana may be shelved, with weary Senators pressing for early adjournment. Nevertheless Attorney General Mitchell will be called before the judiciary committee next Monday.

The dries were to hold the stage in the house, with the judiciary committee planning to close the arid side of its prohibition hearings on Wednesday and take up the Wickersham program bills on Thursday.

ASK FOR NEW DITCH TRIAL

Attorneys for Mrs. Lucas Filed
Motion Before State
Court of Appeals

A motion for a new trial was filed with the clerk of the Ohio court of appeals Monday in the matter of the Blaine ditch case, in favor of which Judge Harley M. Whitcraft of Logan, O., ruled a week ago.

The motion contained seven reasons for a new trial.

The petition was filed by Abernethy and Simkins and C. A. Weldon, attorneys for Mrs. Kathryn Lucas, Darby-twp resident, who has waged a bitter fight against the construction of a ditch in Darby-twp, to be used for the draining of Clark creek.

The Blaine ditch case has been in the courts since March 23, 1924 when Ernest E. Blaine and others filed a petition with the county commissioners to drain Clark creek by making a short cut to Deer creek.

The commissioners put their OK on the project but when Mrs. Lucas appealed in common pleas court, Judge Carver's ruling overruled the commissioners.

The case was then taken to the Ohio court of appeals where Judge Burton's decision was reversed.

The next step in the case was taken when Judge Whitcraft was asked to rule the case on its merits. He did this and ruled in favor of the petitioners.

The outcome of the motion: a new trial is a matter for conjecture.

Charles H. May and Irwin F. Snyder represent Mr. Blaine in the case.

GASSES FORCE RESCUERS TO LEAVE SHAFT

Sixteen Men Known To Be Entombed — After Damp and Gas Fills Mine.

BULLETIN
PINEVILLE, Ky., March 31.—Five bodies were discovered today by a rescue crew in the Pioneer Coal Co.'s mine at Kettle Island, seven miles from here, where 16 men were entombed Saturday.

The discoveries were made at a point about two miles back from the mine's opening. Before the bodies could be identified, the rescuers, their oxygen tanks nearly exhausted, were forced to leave the mine because of intense heat and gas fumes.

The rescuers plan to re-enter the mine this afternoon.

They reported that the mine was filled with gas or "after-damp."

KETTLE ISLAND, KY., March 31.—Fighting throughout the night with overpowering fumes of carbon monoxide gas, rescue crews trying to reach 16 miners entombed a mile and a half from the entrance of the Pioneer Coal Company mine here, early this morning were only 50 feet from their goal. GAS EXPLODES

Rescue operations were started Saturday night immediately after the mine was wrecked by an explosion, which was caused apparently from the ignition of a gas pocket deep in the mine. Progress became slower, however, as they neared the place where the miners are believed to be imprisoned, for during the night they gained only 200 feet.

The gas fumes made frequent shifts changes necessary, and officials of the mine estimated that it would be some time before noon when rescue crews reached the men imprisoned in the earth. Virtually no hope was held that the ill-fated mining crew would be found alive. The families of the miners, as well as mine officials, have given up hope.

A great number of rescue workers have been overcome by the poisonous exhausts of gas from the mine and nearly 20 had to be sent to Pineville near here, during the night to recuperate. The explosion wrecked the entrance of the mine.

The 16 men who were entombed were the only miners in the mine at the time of the explosion. The mine company employs about 400 men. The fact that only a few were in the mine at the time of the explosion was accounted for by the fact that only a half day is worked on Saturday.

The mine company has been over the mine since the explosion, but the mine has been closed since the explosion. The mine company has been over the mine since the explosion, but the mine has been closed since the explosion.

BUCKEYE "9" TO TAKE TRIP

University of Kentucky to be Met There Next Friday And Saturday

COLUMBUS, O., March 31—Ohio State's baseball squad will leave here Thursday for Lexington, Ky., where the University of Kentucky squad will be met Friday and Saturday in two games.

The Buckeye squad has been divided, 19 men forming the varsity group, and 20 the reserve club. Games will probably be scheduled for the "B" team with some of the smaller Ohio Conference schools.

Seven sophomores are on the varsity squad, the others being veterans. Four pitchers are listed, not counting an outfielder and a third baseman with mound ambitions. There are three catchers, seven infielders, four outfielders, and Wesley Fesler, Youngstown, Ohio State's only three-letter man, who is the utility man of the squad.

Two veteran pitchers and two sophomores lead the mound prospects. Bill Kermode, Willoughby, last year's ace, and Ray Klunk, Cincinnati, of the 1927 and 1928 teams, are out, while Jack Condon, Hamilton, and Lowell Wrigley, Lima, are the sophomores.

Behind the bat are Harlin Fry, Mogadore, Art Weishamer, Columbus, and Winston Gould, Cincinnati. Bill Hinchman, Columbus, will probably play center field again, although he also has pitching hopes. Al Hess, Cincinnati, Clyde Walters, Columbus, and Carl Baumgartner, Cincinnati, are the other flycatchers.

Eugene Fichter, Hartwell, is the first baseman. Tom Stull, Coshocton veteran, has the inside track at short, although a sophomore, Phil Gutter, Columbus, may be able to contest the post.

At third there is a three-cornered battle between Howard Cline, Greenville, Arden McConnell, Massillon, and Lawton Fontaine, Akron. Lou Peppe, Columbus, a sophomore, has been holding down second base.

BREEDERS TO HAVE MEETING

Effort To Organize Guernsey Cattle Men To Be Made Here Tuesday.

Guernsey cattle breeders throughout Pickaway-co have been invited to attend an organization meeting which will be held in the Farm Bureau Home next Tuesday evening, April 1, at 7:30 p. m.

The object of this meeting is to perfect the organization of the Guernsey cattle breeders. The 4H Guernsey calf club which is in process of development, will be a material help to the Guernsey Breeders in developing a constructive breed association program. Progress in the enrollment would indicate the fact that approximately 20 Guernsey calves will be brought into the county. These calves will be of the Langwater-May Rose breed.

Anyone who is interested in having their boy or girl enrolled in this project should get in touch with Mr. Lewis, County Agent, at once.

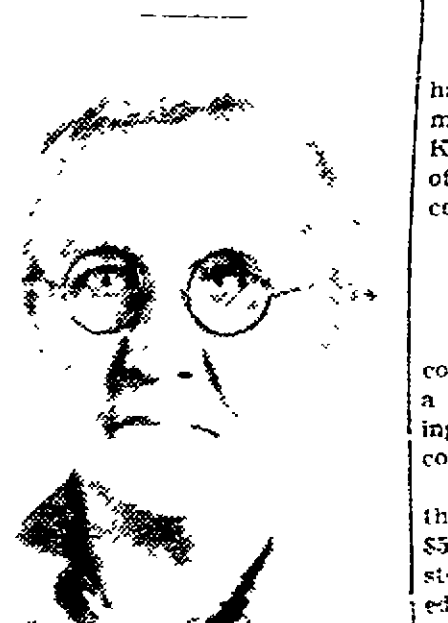

The purchasing committee is comprised of Ivan McKellip, dairy cattle specialist, Ohio State university, Floyd Barlow, secretary of the Ohio Guernsey Breeders Association of Wooster and H. S. Lewis, county agent. This committee will leave April 19th for Fort Atkinson, Wisconsin.

The standard which the local breeders and committee have established is, that the heifers be six to eight months of age, typey individuals from the best Guernsey families; that they be T. B. tested and that they be tested for contagious abortion and from cows having a cow test association record of production.

The initiation of this project is one of the constructive steps toward the introduction of more economic dairy foundation stock for Pickaway county breeders.

RELIEF AT LAST THROUGH POWERS OF NEW KONJOLA

Dayton Lady Eager In Praise of New Medicine Which Won After Others Tried Had Failed.

MRS. ELIZABETH HALLER.

"After spending hundreds of dollars in a vain attempt to gain relief from twenty years of stomach trouble I finally tried Konjola," said Mrs. Elizabeth Haller, 1193 Wisconsin Boulevard, Dayton. "Exhausting labor caused acute distress. A lump formed in my stomach and I bloated and belched terribly. Shortness of breath and dizziness caused by pressure against my heart often made me nearly helpless."

An intimate friend induced me to try Konjola. I knew she was right after I had taken the first bottle and I continued the treatment. Today my stomach trouble, are actually over for the first time in twenty years. I do not bloat after meals and the heart-palpitation and dizziness never occur. I eat heartily for I have an excellent appetite. My general health is better than it has been in years."

Konjola is sold in Circleville at Hamilton & Ryan's drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—Adv.

that she shows the proper degree of enthusiasm and knows what she is after.

The campaign is by no means ended. Neither the candidates who are now in the lead; or those who are planning to better their positions in the future can afford to be idle at this time. They should not only work hard to secure subscriptions and votes but should show gains daily in the paper, so that their friends may know that they are fighting well and putting themselves in line for the big prize at the close.

Everyone likes to help a winner, but those who are behind in the race, showing little if any improvement from day to day, are likely to be looked upon as dead ones to be forgotten at the finish.

Any candidate in the race can secure a safe lead this week by taking advantage of the big liberal offer for new subscriptions which ends next Thursday night at 5:30. This offer will enable anyone to make their hand unbeatable and the wise candidate will do that very thing. Today Mr. Dudley Mills comes to the top of the list. The other candidates had better keep an eye on this energetic young man, or a big surprise will be sprung at the close. He has scores of friends and plenty of ambitious supporters, ready to make every effort to win the Oldsmobile.

TRAINING CAMP SHORTS

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 31—Manager Roger Peckinpaugh of the Cleveland Indians today had the announcement of Jonah Goldman that he intends to play shortstop this season for the Tribe. The announcement came in the form of some brilliant playing yesterday by Goldman which was responsible to a large extent for the Tribe's 3-to-1 victory over the New Orleans Pelicans.

Goldman handled 10 field chances flawlessly, and in addition, made two hits, one of them a cracking two-bagger that netted the Tribe's only earned run.

ORLANDO, Fla., March 31—Sharpened with a four-hour drill yesterday and with a long series of games with southern minor league teams ahead of them, the revamped Cincinnati Reds, who hope "to do things" this year, today started their trek northward. They will make their first real bid for baseball honors when they meet the Cleveland Indians at Redland Field, Cincinnati, April 12th.

Manager Dan Howley, in commenting on the fact that "stove-league dopsters picked his Redmen to finish sixth or seventh, said:

"I'm glad they figure us that way. It's much better to be picked to run sixth or seventh and then surprise the fans than it is to be hailed a winner and then fail to make good."

LOS ANGELES, Calif., March 31—The pitching of "Fireball" Joe Bush in particular and the batting of the Chicago Cubs in general today were held responsible for the revenge the Cubs are enjoying following their 13 to 7 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

In six innings the Pirates yesterday took just a pair of singles from Bush while the Cubs' bats were rapping them far and wide.

DALLAS, Tex., March 31—The spring series between the Chicago White Sox and the New York Giants stood even today at five games each. Despite four Sox home runs in yesterday's game the Giants won 10 to 8.

The two teams will not clash again, until they meet in Evansville, Ind., on April 7.

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 31—They wondered about the Babe in Florida and today all Texas pondered. For Mr. Ruth delivered only four measly infield rollers and one thumping strike-out as the Yankees defeated the Houston Buffaloes yesterday 6 to 5. Floyd Rose, youthful Houston hurler, won the plaudits of the 7,500 fans.

DEBATE FINAL TO BE APRIL 5

Troy and Ravenna Team Will Close Third Annual State-wide Tournament

COLUMBUS, O.—Third annual Ohio State High School Debating League tournament will come to a close here April 5 with the championship debate between Troy and Ravenna high schools.

Affirmative side of the debate will be taken by Troy and the negative by Ravenna. The question has been the same throughout the tournament: Resolved, that trial before a judge or board of judges be substituted for trial by petit jury in the United States.

Third annual business meeting of the league will be held Saturday afternoon, April 5, in Derby Hall on the Ohio State campus. Prior to the meeting, at which Prof. H. H. Maynard, of the department of business organization, will speak, delegates from the more than 100 member schools of the league will be taken on a tour of the campus.

The final debate will be at 8 p. m. Saturday, in the university chapel. Dr. J. L. Clifton, state director of education will preside. Team and individual trophies will be awarded to the winning and runner-up debaters by the Columbus Dispatch.

The league is sponsored by the division of public speaking, Ohio State University, with J. Glean Ross as manager.

Don't Go to Extremes To End Constipation

When bad breath, or a coated tongue, biliousness or headaches warn of constipation, don't take violent purgatives. There's no use when a candy Cascaret will stop the trouble in a jiffy; will cleanse your system pleasantly, and completely.

The relief you get so promptly from Cascarets is lasting. Cascarets are made from cascara, a substance which medical authorities agree actually strengthens the bowel muscles. So Cascarets are a blessing to old folks with weakened bowels; to children to anyone in need of establishing regular bowel habits. Ten cents a box—all drug stores.

"MASTER of MONEY" BY ROY VICKERS

CHAPTER XLVIII.
 HIS words were as strong wine to Shirley, intoxicating her with the joy of achievement. Alan had definitely asked her to help him—had accepted her as a partner in the rough-and-tumble of running the camp.

He had mounted and trotted away to Abramov's quarters, paying her the compliment of leaving her to tackle the difficult job of picking out the foremen and arranging for the distribution of the boots.

In the event, she was more than a little disappointed with the easiness of the work he had given her. The comitadjis and laborers alike, if they paid no respect to her womanhood as such, at least accepted her as the eyes and ears of Alan.

As ten o'clock approached and work stopped, he came to fetch her and together they walked back to the shack.

Abramov is no fool when it comes to scouting. Neither Stephanos nor anybody else can get into this camp without our knowing it well in advance.

As they walked she noticed that he lagged a bit.

"You're tired out, aren't you?" she asked.

"I could do with a rest," he answered. "I've been on my feet ever since we said good-bye. I'll get six hours' sleep now anyway."

"I'll fix that for you," he answered, and when they got back to the shack rolled her mattress on to the floor and arranged the mosquito-net over it.

There's a contraption that Peter made for creating a draught along the floor," he told her. "Pity I had to rush off in such a hurry or I could have shown you how it worked."

"Have you got your riding kit here?"

"Yes, and I've already ridden your mare," she answered, and told him the incident of her jumping and its grim sequel.

"Ah! So you've seen a bit of blood, have you?" he asked, half to himself. "Just as well on the whole. You'll probably see more before you leave this camp."

She caught her breath. On the next day they worked without interruption, and in the evening Shirley rode with Alan to the secret spot he had marked for the two machine guns. There were two more days of uninterrupted work before Stephanos came.

They were breakfasting together at dawn when Shirley caught sight of Abramov running toward the shack. She told him and added: "It looks as if there were some thing the matter."

"A scout came into camp with news. He is by himself. The scout swears he could see no man. Stephanos just rode up to him and ordered him to ride ahead to the camp and announce that he wished to speak to you."

Shirley could see that Alan was angry.

"Why the devil didn't your man shoot?" he growled. "The plain fact is your men are afraid of Stephanos and they'd rather get cured of that quick. Where is Stephanos now?"

"In my tent, Mr. Brennanway. He sent a polite message to you. He speaks French, not English. Abramov broke into French. My compliments to Mr. Brennanway and will he give me the honor of seeing me?"

Shirley was watching Alan's face. He smiled with genuine amusement.

"My compliments to Mr. Stephanos. I am desolated that I shall have to keep him waiting ten minutes, at the end of which time I shall consider it an honor to interview him. Say just that, Abramov. Don't forget it—that's the polite version. When he comes here, I'm going to kick him out. One minute—double all the scouts and bring the remainder of your men up here to this clearing with Stephanos."

DR. COPELAND SAYS—
Painful Spasms
Dr. Copeland's Health Topic Today
This Form of Neuralgia, Which the French Term "Tic Douloureux," Is More Common With People of Middle Age—Bad Teeth Often the Basic Cause.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
 United States Senator from New York.
 Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

"TIC DOULOUREUX" is a French term meaning "painful spasm." It is applied to a form of neuralgia in the face. It is quite distinct from the ordinary neuralgia. It involves the parts of the head supplied by the "trigeminal" nerve.

This nerve, as its name indicates, divides into three branches. One branch goes to the end of the nose, the eyelids and the forehead. Another goes to the upper lip, the cheek and temple. A third goes to the skin of the lower jaw and the area in front of the ear.

You will see that this nerve, through its branches, supplies the whole face. Not only does it give motive power to the muscles located in this region, but it also supplies the sense of feeling. However these branches extend, there are the locations of the excruciating pains which accompany this ailment.

When the nerve becomes overstimulated, there is a twitching or contraction of the jaw and face. Acute pain is felt in that part supplied by the affected branch of the nerve. The pain usually attacks the eyeball and is felt over the eye.

It is an ailment more commonly met in people over forty than among the young. Diseases of the teeth and jawbone may be responsible for this trouble. If the antrum, that hollow space in the bone under the cheek, is involved, here is the source of the trouble.

Overwork and loss of sleep, a run-down condition, or exposure to wet and cold may bring on this condition. It may last only a day or two at a time, or it may continue for several weeks. It may not occur often, long intervals of comfort being experienced. The attacks come on suddenly.

The symptoms are very pronounced. There are severe, cutting, shooting and dagger-like pains. The first symptom may be located in the side of the nose and the upper lip. The pain extends to the cheek, eye and temple, into the teeth and all over the one side of the head.

Sometimes the muscles of the face twitch and contract. The patient runs down under the terrible pain. He loses sleep and there is always the dread of other attacks.

None of the usual hot applications or other treatments in cases of ordinary neuralgia seem to have any effect on this condition. Drugs should be taken only under a competent physician's orders. There is always the danger of contracting a bad habit if self-medication is used.

Various operative measures have been used. The pain is so acute that patients would resort to almost anything to end the suffering. Removal of a section of the nerve has been done. Another treatment is to inject alcohol into the nerve itself. This procedure has given relief, at least temporarily, and anything that affords relief from such suffering is worth while.

AT THE CLIFTONA

"The Ship From Shanghai," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's adaptation of Dale Collins' novel, "Ordeal," now on view at the Cliftona theatre, leaves the well-beaten track of film romance to depict the story of a group of people at sea who are driven to desperation as a result of a mutiny by the ship's crew and an impending water famine.

A large cast of equally competent players helps put the unusual story across. Louis Wolheim, as the half-mad steward, who gains control of the ship, gives a brilliant performance. Others in the cast in prominent roles are Conrad Nagel, Kay Johnson, Carmel Myers, Holmes Herbert, Zeffie Tilbury, Ivan Linow and Pat Moriarty.

The novel was adapted to screen purposes by John Howard Lawson, author of "Processional" and other plays. Ira Morgan is responsible for the splendid photography.

"The Ship From Shanghai" is probably the most colorful tale of the sea ever filmed and has been acted and photographed with such a degree of realism that this scribe walked out of the Cliftona theatre with the smell of salt water in his nostrils.

AT THE GRAND

When he was a boy, J. Harold Murray's big ambition was to become a sailor and he finally managed to ship on a tramp steamer, sailing from Boston. He had no carfare and was obliged to walk home to get his belongings, and back to the boat. When he arrived at the wharf, the boat had sailed. Murray sat down on the dock and cried. He has never been able to figure out why that captain didn't wait for him.

But for this circumstance, however, Murray might have been a seafaring man, instead of becoming an outstanding star in musical comedy and somebody might have sung his leading role in "Married in Hollywood," Fox Movietone Oscar Straus Viennese song Romance Monday at the Grand theatre. Murray is co-featured with Norma Terris, another luminary from Broadway, and Walter Catlett, well known comedian, is prominently cast.

Speaks Here

Betty Weakland, known from coast to coast as 'America's youngest preacher and editor, will sing and preach in the First Methodist Episcopal church Tuesday evening, April 1st, at 7:30 o'clock. Little Miss Weakland is a normal, carefree, happy little girl in spite of her great abilities as a singer and preacher. She loves to play, read and study as other children of her age do. But greater than anything else is her love for preaching the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

Although only 13 years old, Betty is well equipped for the work she has chosen to do, having crossed the continent four times and holding the world's record for preaching in more churches than anyone her age. During the past six years she has preached to thousands of people and thousands of men, women, and young people have taken her by the hand and publicly acknowledged their acceptance of Jesus Christ.

This, plus the fact that Betty's audiences almost invariably pack the auditorium in which she is speaking, no matter how large it may be, to its capacity, with often times hundreds turned away unable to gain entrance, is proof beyond the question of a doubt that this wonder-child is definitely called of God to the ministry. The strain of preaching to such great audiences nightly, which many times breaks the strength of a grown man, is not at all evident in Betty. She is the picture of robust health and loves exercise and outdoor sports of any kind, especially tennis, swimming and skating.

Betty will be accompanied to Circleville by her parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. Roy Weakland of Cleveland. They will be in the city for this one service only, as they are on a one-night tour which will include Canton, All-ance, New Philadelphia, Cambridge, Newark, Lancaster, Columbus, Portsmouth, Ashland, Ky., Huntington, W. Va., and Marietta, Ohio. Everyone is cordially invited to attend the service.
